MARKET COMMENTARY – JANUARY 2019

Market Environment

A more dovish tone from the Federal Reserve and improving trade rhetoric between the United States and China helped stocks bounce back in January after their widespread selloff a month earlier. The S&P 500 Index gained 8.0% and small-cap US equities, as measured by the Russell 2000, returned 11.2%. Internationally, the MSCI EAFE Index rose 6.6%, with Europe lagging the US amid weakening economic data, particularly in Italy. The MSCI Emerging Markets Index increased 8.8% as currency appreciation, notably in the Brazilian real and Russian ruble, provided a tailwind to returns.

Yields on 10-year US Treasuries and German Bunds declined five and nine basis points, respectively, as the Fed indicated a slower pace for rate increases in 2019. Credit spreads broadly retreated from December's elevated levels; the Barclays US Corporate High Yield OAS declined 103 basis points to 4.23%, lifting the index 4.5% in January. In emerging markets, local- and dollar-denominated debt were in the black, with the JPM EMBI Global Diversified and JPM GBI-EM Global Diversified Indexes posting gains of 4.4% and 5.5%, respectively.

In real assets, spot WTI Crude Oil increased 18.5% following news of OPEC supply cuts to the US. Additionally, midstream energy benefitted from higher oil prices and strong earnings, fueling a 16% increase last month in the Alerian Midstream Energy Index.

The selloff at the end of 2018 and the subsequent rebound in risk assets in January serve as a reminder that volatility is likely to continue in the near term as global growth slows and the US economy advances into the late stage of the economic cycle. To this end, we remind investors to maintain a diversified, risk-balanced portfolio, with a preference for an overweight to emerging market equities and a reduction in lower-quality credit exposure.

- All investments carry some level of risk. Diversification and other asset allocation techniques are not guaranteed to ensure profit or protect against losses.
- NEPC's source for portfolio pricing, calculation of accruals, and transaction information is the plan's custodian bank. Information on market indices and security characteristics is received from other sources external to NEPC. Reporting Methodology

- The client's custodian bank is NEPC's preferred data source unless otherwise directed. NEPC generally reconciles custodian data to manager data. If the custodian cannot provide accurate data, manager data may be used.
- Trailing time period returns are determined by geometrically linking the holding period returns, from the first full month after inception to the report date. Rates of return are annualized when the time period is longer than a year. Performance is presented gross and/or net of manager fees as indicated on each page.
- For managers funded in the middle of a month, the "since inception" return will start with the first full month, although actual inception dates and cash flows are taken into account in all Composite calculations.
- This report may contain forward-looking statements that are based on NEPC's estimates, opinions and beliefs, but NEPC cannot guarantee that any plan will achieve its targeted return or meet other goals.
